Message from the Chairperson

I am pleased to present the Victorian Multicultural Commission (VMC) 2024–25 Annual Report. The report captures a busy year of challenges and achievements, across a vast range of activities and communities.

At the heart of our efforts are the trusted, respectful and candid relationships that the VMC and our Commissioners have forged with communities, government and departments. This trust enables the VMC to bring different stakeholders together to collaborate on initiatives, address challenges, and advise government departments on public policies and legislation.

It has been a challenging year on several fronts, one of which is the impact of global conflicts on local communities. We have seen the rise of unacceptable behaviour by individuals, and I hope with the legislative changes ahead they will be held to account.

In times of such difficulties, it is ever more important that we listen to the voices of these communities, facilitate safe spaces to listen and hold each other's emotions and pain with care and empathy.

Leaders from all walks of life must also engage and re-engage to find a better path forward: a path that is safe, inclusive and full of understanding and respect.

At the federal level, we've seen the release of the Multicultural Framework Review and the National Anti-Racism Framework by the Australian Human Rights Commission. In Victoria, we've seen the launch of Victoria's first ever Anti-Racism Strategy, a five-year plan to prevent and address racism and discrimination.

Victoria also commenced the Victorian Multicultural Review, led by George Lekakis AO and his expert advisory group. The VMC looks forward to understanding the insights presented to the Victorian Government to ensure—now and into the future—that Victoria's policies, institutions and programs better reflect and support the needs of our multicultural and multifaith communities.

Victorian Multicultural Festival 2025

Cultural Diversity Week 2025

I extend my sincere appreciation to Minister Ingrid Stitt and her staff for their continuing commitment and collaboration with the VMC to promote Victoria's diversity.

I am grateful for the Regional Advisory Councils, the Multifaith Advisory Group and the Multicultural Youth Network for their ongoing commitment to building equitable, inclusive multicultural and multifaith communities.

I thank my fellow Commissioners for their steadfast dedication to multiculturalism in Victoria and the work of the VMC. A special thank you to the Deputy Chairperson, Bwe Thay, whose passion, dedication and hard work is an asset to the VMC.

I extend this thanks to the staff at the VMC, whose unwavering work makes it possible to deliver on its objectives and functions.

I would also like to thank our colleagues at Multicultural Affairs in the Department of Premier and Cabinet, and other departments and agencies. Collaboration, built on respectful working relationships, is key to ensuring the Victorian Government can deliver the best possible outcomes for Victoria's diverse communities.

The VMC fundamentally believes that our differences make us stronger and that Victoria prospers through its diversity. The VMC hopes our work inspires others to champion inclusivity, embrace diversity, and continue to build a Victoria that is welcoming and vibrant for all.

About the Victorian Multicultural Commission

The Victorian Multicultural Commission (VMC) supports and advocates for culturally, religiously and linguistically diverse Victorians.

The VMC was established in 1983 as a statutory body. It is legislated under the Multicultural Victoria Act 2011 (Vic).

The VMC provides an important link between communities and the Victorian Government. It fosters social cohesion and promotes cultural diversity using a strengths-based approach. It emphasises the importance of genuine community engagement and community-based solutions.

The VMC promotes the cultural, social and economic benefits of multiculturalism. This includes advocating for tangible, systemic change within government departments and agencies, for example, on:

- ▶ the effects of global conflicts on diaspora communities in Victoria
- ▶ prioritising multicultural communities in the design and delivery of anti-racism, family violence and mental health services.

Furthermore, the VMC helps to improve public services to ensure they are more culturally inclusive and accessible for everyone.

The VMC's primary stakeholders include:

- ▶ multicultural and multifaith communities (organisations, service providers, peak bodies, faith groups, businesses and individuals)
- ▶ the Minister for Multicultural Affairs, Victorian Government departments, agencies, statutory bodies and other commissions.

Mission statement

We strengthen our community through support, celebrations and advocacy for culturally and linguistically diverse Victorians.

Understanding the VMC's impact

In 2024–25, as local and global challenges highlighted the critical need for understanding, inclusion and resilience, the VMC strengthened its standing as the trusted voice on behalf of multicultural and multifaith communities. The VMC was a vital bridge for collaboration between people, communities and government.

Our strategic focus for the year was on enhancing our:

1 relationships with government departments and communities

2 internal governance and strategy

3 creativity and innovation in business-as-usual activities.

This strategic emphasis yielded significant impacts, including:

1 enhanced credibility, collaboration and trust with government departments and leadership

2 increased reach into, and trust with, multifaith and multicultural communities

3 high quality and impactful work across all teams through a re-energised and agile approach to our work.

These impacts were demonstrated through the VMC and Commissioners':

- ▶ agility in responding to overseas events or conflicts with compassion, often playing a critical convening role by listening to affected communities and reinforcing the importance of neutrality, safety and social cohesion in public discourse
- ▶ recognition as a trusted public entity that can advocate for cultural inclusion, safety and belonging, while closing feedback loops to promote visibility over the VMC's advocacy efforts
- ▶ increased outreach and work with the Victorian Government to make sure the voice, experience and cultural nuances of diverse communities are reflected in proposed legislation and policies, enhancing their effectiveness
- ▶ enriched bespoke engagement activities, including an online forum with the Premier of Victoria and Minister for Multicultural Affairs on bail reform and anti-vilification laws
- ▶ repeated requests to disseminate crucial information and facilitate community consultation on vital issues
- ▶ increased federal engagement, including multiple consultations with Special Envoys, federal Ministers and the Department of Home Affairs
- ▶ input into several Victoria Police reviews, and regular high-level meetings with Victoria Police officials
- ▶ increased invitations to, and attendance at, community events
- ▶ stronger governance foundations, enabling more effective advocacy and seamless onboarding for new Commissioners and members
- ▶ successful delivery of a full calendar of uplifting, collaborative and celebratory events throughout the year, reflecting our renewed operational strength, including an inaugural television campaign for Cultural Diversity Week and the return of the Victorian Multicultural Festival.

Testimonials about the VMC

The true measure of the VMC's impact lies in the voices of the diverse communities we serve. Here's what some of our valued members and partners shared about their experiences with the VMC this year:

Regional Advisory Council members

Testimonial by Harisankar Parippaayillam

“Being part of the RAC for the Grampians region over the last few years has been an enriching experience. It has provided a platform for the Ballarat Indian and Hindu communities to express their perspectives and needs, while also enabling us to relay the Victorian Multicultural Commission's messages to the regional population.

This two-way communication has ensured mutual understanding and growth. Additionally, participating in numerous events and meetings with the advisory committee has broadened my understanding of other communities and their leadership.”

Testimonial by Nicolas Ojeda Amador

“As a passionate member of the North West Metro RAC, I have witnessed the powerful role the VMC plays in creating spaces where multicultural communities are not only represented but truly heard. Over the past few years, our RAC has worked collaboratively to unearth community voices, identify local issues, and advocate for systemic change.

My work at Beyond Blue, and mentoring young people through CMY's Employment Empowers program, has reinforced how vital these platforms are for real change. I'm especially proud to represent the vibrant Latin American community—whose growing contributions are essential to Victoria's multicultural future.”

Testimonial by Mariola Nebiu

“Being a part of the Hume RAC has been a great experience, allowing me to engage in meaningful discussions and initiatives that support and empower multicultural communities in Victoria.

Collaborating with fellow members has been both inspiring and impactful, and I am grateful for the chance to contribute to positive change in our diverse society.”

Testimonial by Santi Whiteside

“I have been a member of the VMC Eastern Metropolitan RAC since 2021, representing the Indonesian community. It has been a rewarding experience, allowing me to engage with Victoria's multicultural communities and contribute insights on issues affecting them.

The RAC provides a vital platform that connects communities with government. Through regular consultations, the VMC engages with multicultural and multifaith groups to better understand their challenges and opportunities, ensuring that diverse voices help shape inclusive policies and programs.”

Multicultural Youth Network

Testimony by Aristidis Tsoulakos

“Being part of the MYN has given me the confidence to engage with my community and advocate for diverse young voices.”

Testimony by Ahelee Rahman

“Being a member of the MYN has been a valuable opportunity to connect with young people from diverse backgrounds and advocate directly to the VMC and government around the issues we are most passionate about. Thank you to the VMC staff for supporting us and bringing together 15 diverse individuals to make an incredible team!”

Multifaith Advisory Group

Testimony by Sheikh Muhammad Nawas Saleem (Board of Imams Victoria)

“The MAG has been a forum for multifaith leaders to share their thoughts on pressing issues affecting the community. As a member of MAG, I felt that I was able to share my viewpoints in a safe and non-judgemental forum.”

Testimony by Rabbi Daniel Rabin (Rabbinical Council of Victoria)

“In a time when social cohesion is under real strain, I believe the MAG has a greater responsibility than ever to foster genuine, courageous conversations. It's a space with real potential, if we're willing to lean into the discomfort that true dialogue sometimes demands.”

Testimony by Rev Helen Summers OAM (The Interfaith Centre of Melbourne)

“The MAG's Peace Forum in February was timely as we reflected on cultivating inner peace and compassion, much needed during this uncertain time in the world. Along with some MAG members, I visited and supported Hindu, Jewish and Islamic leaders and their communities after some serious incidents. Acknowledging our shared humanity and cultivating respectful relationships is one of the great strengths of the MAG. We support each leader and their faith community when issues arise and provide advice to Government, thus contributing towards harmony and social cohesion.”

Supporting government priorities

The VMC plays a crucial role in supporting key government priorities by ensuring multicultural community perspectives are deeply embedded in policy and service delivery.

We achieve this through active representation on Ministerial advisory committees, interdepartmental committees, working groups and direct liaison with departments on specific policy areas. These critical areas include anti-racism, anti-vilification, family violence, mental health, social cohesion and fostering cultural diversity within the public sector.

The VMC promotes and shares crucial information about government programs and initiatives. We also proactively facilitate community involvement, ensuring diverse voices are heard and meaningfully represented across various government functions.

To effectively support government priorities, the VMC collaborates with government departments and agencies to:

- ▶ share insights and seek input from our networks and consultative bodies, such as Regional Advisory Councils (RACs), the Multifaith Advisory Group (MAG) and the Multicultural Youth Network (MYN), and other VMC networks built over the past 40 years
- ▶ support inclusion and community understanding of multicultural and multifaith communities in broader public life through events and promotion
- ▶ provide expert input and advice for departmental or whole-of-government submissions
- ▶ ensure government prioritises the needs of Victoria's multicultural communities when it designs and delivers services
- ▶ deliver impactful consultations, events and roundtables led and organised by Commissioners

- ▶ undertake research, for example the report A Transcultural Approach to Belonging and Engagement among Migrant Youth published in October 2024, which sought to understand the shift of service delivery from community-specific to mainstream organisations
- ▶ inform Commissioners about government programs and initiatives through guest presentations by senior officials, and for Commissioners, in turn, to inform communities.

In 2024–25, the VMC made significant contributions to the Victorian Government's priorities. This included:

- ▶ Anti-racism: Supported work to shape the Anti-Racism Strategy, including as a member of the Anti-Racism Taskforce and by contributing to the Combatting Islamophobia Guide, and through active community engagement to support Victoria's Truth and Treaty process.
- ▶ Anti-vilification: Provided a submission on the Draft Justice Legislation Amendment (Anti-vilification and Social Cohesion) Bill and hosted an online forum with the Premier of Victoria and Minister for Multicultural Affairs on bail reform and anti-vilification laws.
- ▶ Family violence: Co-chaired the Family Safety Victoria Multicultural Working Group and regularly met with key family violence service providers for multicultural communities.
- ▶ Mental health: Advocated to ensure multicultural communities are prioritised in the design and delivery of Victoria's mental health systems and services, including as a member of the Diverse Communities Framework & Blueprint Working Group and through our partnership with the Victorian Collaborative Centre for Mental Health and Wellbeing.

- Social cohesion: Released public statements condemning violence, racism and discrimination; supported the Department of Justice and Community Safety (DJCS) in their work, including advice on the machete retail ban; and met with the Special Envoy to Combat Islamophobia in Australia, Special Envoy to Combat Antisemitism in Australia, and Special Envoy for Social Cohesion.
- Cultural diversity in the public sector: Provided input into several meetings to develop the Victorian Public Sector Commission's Cultural Diversity Workforce Strategy and provided advice to the Department of Education on board diversity.

Now in its 23rd year, the Victorian Multicultural Awards for Excellence (MAE) formally recognise individuals and organisations who foster cross-cultural understanding and support people from migrant, refugee and asylum seeker backgrounds to fully participate in Victorian life. The awards are proudly coordinated by the VMC.

In 2024, MAE received 223 submissions (excluding the Police category), with a panel of 27 expert judges selecting award recipients. The awards ceremony was held on 4 December 2024 at Government House, hosted by The Honourable Margaret Gardner AC, and attended by over 400 guests.

Sixty-seven individuals and organisations were recognised across 14 categories for outstanding contributions to multiculturalism, through both professional and volunteer service. For the first time, the Refugee Awards were included, with four winners and four highly commended recipients.

Additionally, 25 Victorians were inducted into the Multicultural Honour Roll, now in its third year, celebrating their enduring commitment to multiculturalism in Victoria.

The VMC thanks the following sponsors for partnering with us to deliver the MAE and Victorian Multicultural Honour Role: Commonwealth Bank, SBS, Foot Solutions, John Stonemart, LanguageLoop, LouvreElite, My Holistic Care and the Victorian Electoral Commission.

Sponsors Event: appreciating our partners

The VMC hosted a Sponsors Event on 27 February to show its appreciation to existing sector and industry partners, who share the VMC's commitment and values in championing and celebrating multiculturalism.

The event included entertainment and a presentation on the VMC's flagship events, highlighting how ongoing partnerships and collaboration are key to fostering social cohesion and strengthening our diverse communities.

Cultural Diversity Week 2025: embracing Victoria's multiculturalism

Held from 17 to 23 March, Cultural Diversity Week (CDW) 2025 was reimagined as a dynamic, standalone flagship initiative, maximising engagement across Victoria. Under the theme 'Embrace the Journey, Shape our Future,' it became the most expansive celebration of multiculturalism in the state's history.

Guided by a three-pillar communications strategy—driving participation, a user-generated campaign, and the Victorian Multicultural Festival—the campaign broadened reach, inspired authentic storytelling, and strengthened community connections.

Cultural Diversity Week Media Launch 2025

Amplifying digital and online connections: Cultural Diversity Week 2025

Digital and social media played a pivotal role in amplifying CDW 2025, driving awareness, engagement and participation across Victoria.

Key digital and social achievements included:

- ▶ A user-generated social media campaign, which encouraged people to share their cultural story in a short video to inspire others and support the theme 'Embrace the Journey, Shape our Future'. Videos showcased different traditions, language, or favourite cultural moments, using the tag @multiculturevic #VMC2025 and #Embracethejourney. The campaign drew over 50,000 interactions, with participation from the Premier, Ministers and high-profile celebrities.
- ▶ Significant web engagement with 19,170 visits to the CDW landing page (59% engagement rate) and 10,686 first-time visitors to the VMC website.
- ▶ Teacher and Stakeholder Kits were digitally distributed to thousands of schools and organisations across Victoria, extending the campaign's reach into classrooms and community settings. This included over 5,000 community organisations, 100 Victorian Government agencies and 79 local councils.

Together, these digital and social activations significantly amplified CDW 2025's message, helping transform it into a far-reaching and participatory celebration of multiculturalism.

CDW key achievements:

- ▶ Expanded reach and engagement through stronger partnerships with corporate sponsors, government agencies and community organisations. This supported a record number of regional and local events including performances, food festivals and cultural showcases.
- ▶ Victorian Multicultural Festival (21 to 23 March), delivered in partnership with Grazeland, featured 20 performances, 50 food vendors and 7 sponsor activations, attracting 9,687 visitors—a 25% increase in foot traffic compared to the venue's standard weekly visitation.
- ▶ A pre-festival media launch, attended by over 60 public figures, secured 19 media mentions across TV, print, radio, and digital—reaching an estimated 700,400 people.
- ▶ The first-ever CDW television commercial—made possible through partnerships with Think HQ/CultureVerse and OMD—aired across multiple channels and drove unprecedented visibility and engagement through a statewide integrated media campaign reaching over a million Victorians.
- ▶ A user-generated social campaign using the hashtag #CDW2025, which drew over 50,000 interactions.
- ▶ The CDW campaign drove 19,170 visits to the CDW landing webpage and distributed Teacher and Stakeholder Kits to thousands of schools and organisations across Victoria.

CDW 2025 achieved its central goal: celebrating Victoria's many cultures, while inviting every community to help shape our shared future. From a record-setting schedule of regional and metropolitan events to the inaugural TV/radio campaign and a user-generated social push that drew thousands of new voices, engagement reached unprecedented levels.

The VMC thanks the following sponsors for partnering with us to deliver Cultural Diversity Week and the Victorian Multicultural Festival: Commonwealth Bank, Grazeland, SBS, Think HQ / CultureVerse, Australian Government Department of Health, Disability and Ageing, Leba CALD Media, S&J Media Group, Foot Solutions, John Stonemart, LanguageLoop, LouvreElite, My Holistic Care and the Victorian Electoral Commission.

Multicultural Film Festival 2025: showcasing diversity through cinema

The VMC proudly presented the Multicultural Film Festival (MFF) in partnership with Swinburne University of Technology. This showcased short films that celebrate cultural diversity globally and explore life in multicultural Australia—home to the world's oldest living cultures and over 300 different ancestries.

In 2025, the festival saw a significant increase in engagement, receiving 1,275 submissions, up 145 from the previous edition. Films explored a broad range of themes, including migration, settlement, and intergenerational and intercultural experiences.

For the first time, the VMC partnered with a network of experienced filmmakers and industry professionals who became Friends of the MFF. These passionate advocates, listed below, demonstrated commitment to championing diverse storytelling and supporting the next generation of emerging talent across Australia's vibrant screen industry:

- ▶ Atong Atem
- ▶ Helen Kapalos
- ▶ John Safran
- ▶ Josh Piterman
- ▶ Ra Chapman
- ▶ Tig Terera

Fifteen films were chosen as the MFF Official Selection. Films received awards and honourable mentions across six categories. The MFF premiered at a public screening at ACMI Cinemas and expanded its reach through additional screenings in metropolitan and regional locations including Bunjil Place, The University of Melbourne Shepparton campus, RMIT University Melbourne campus, Rosebud Cinema in the Mornington Peninsula Shire and Federation Square, as well as through SBS On Demand.

Advocacy to government

In 2024–25, the VMC reinforced our role as a vital, independent voice for multicultural, multifaith and multilingual communities. Through targeted advocacy, deep consultation and active representation, the VMC ensured that the lived experience of Victoria’s diverse communities informed the development and delivery of policies, programs and services.

Against a backdrop of ongoing global conflict, domestic uncertainty and economic pressures, the VMC advocated for structural reforms that would protect human rights, reduce inequality and foster greater social cohesion for multicultural communities. The VMC’s advisory function continued to be underpinned by direct insight from trusted networks and partners, including our eight RACs, the MAG and the MYN.

This year, the VMC advanced our advocacy and influence through a mix of input into reviews and submissions, collaborative partnerships and participation on interdepartmental committees and taskforces.

Contributions to reviews, submissions and advice: influencing systemic change

In 2024–25, the VMC’s advocacy drew on research and analysis from our community consultations and advisory networks from metropolitan, rural and regional Victoria.

Our efforts focused on:

- ▶ contributing to several major government and independent reviews and reports that aimed to shape fairer and more inclusive policy frameworks for all Victorians
- ▶ preparing detailed submissions in response to government inquiries and policy consultations
- ▶ providing formal advice and promoting community participation on a broad range of issues affecting Victoria’s multicultural communities
- ▶ maintaining respectful and productive relationships with key federal and state Ministers and departmental representatives.

The VMC provided robust advice to reviews and reports examining:

- ▶ social cohesion and anti-racism legislation
- ▶ community safety, including anti-vilification protections and hate crime reporting
- ▶ youth participation and civic education
- ▶ multicultural and migrant settlement outcomes.

Regional Advisory Forum 2025

The VMC's notable contributions to submissions and responses included:

- ▶ Submission to the DJCS's consultation on the Justice Legislation Amendment (Anti-vilification and Social Cohesion) Bill 2024, designed to strengthen Victoria's anti-vilification protections.
- ▶ Submission in response to the DJCS's Reforms to Victoria's Protest Laws—consultation paper, emphasising multicultural perspectives on the current protest law proposals.
- ▶ Advice to the DJCS on the implications of Victoria's machete ban for multicultural communities.
- ▶ Response to Victoria Police's Victim-Centric Policing Framework—consultation paper, to strengthen support for victims of crime and enhance victim-centric policing.
- ▶ Advice to the Department of Home Affairs on programs supporting refugees and humanitarian entrants.
- ▶ Review and contribution to the Victorian Government's Report on Multicultural Affairs 2023–24.
- ▶ Input on the Department of Premier and Cabinet's (DPC) draft Combating Islamophobia Guide.
- ▶ Presentation by VMC Chairperson Vivienne Nguyen AM at a public hearing for the Inquiry into capturing data on people who use family violence.

The VMC also engaged directly with a broad range of Victorian Government departments and the federal Department of Home Affairs, advising on:

- ▶ strengthening Victoria's multicultural policy systems to enhance social cohesion
- ▶ addressing systemic racism, antisemitism and islamophobia
- ▶ improving the collection and use of diversity data
- ▶ designing culturally responsive aged care, family violence and mental health services
- ▶ strengthening rights and protections for temporary visa holders
- ▶ strengthening cultural diversity in the public sector employment, including on boards.

Through this advocacy and advice, the VMC:

- ▶ supported the design of more inclusive policies and practices, while informing broader public service reform
- ▶ elevated multicultural community voices and perspectives in policy development—ensuring that voices often excluded from mainstream policy debates were included, recognised and respected
- ▶ helped highlight barriers, solutions and best practice models for more inclusive government, governance and services.

Using community insights for advocacy: RAC's 2025 Regional Advisory Forum

In June 2025, the VMC held its second Regional Advisory Forum (RAF). The forum brought together RAC members from across Victoria for a full day of collaboration and dialogue with senior Victorian Government representatives.

The RAF focused on key issues raised by communities, including mental health, family violence, racism, employment, housing and youth justice—and created space for RAC members to share local challenges and community-led solutions.

The event strengthened cross-regional connections and reinforced the value of lived experience in shaping public policy. Moderated by VMC Commissioners, the concurrent panel sessions and workshops with department leaders allowed for direct and transparent engagement between community and government.

Insights from the RAF were captured in a strategic VMC advocacy report. This report highlights emerging trends and persistent challenges impacting multicultural Victorians and presents a series of evidence-based recommendations for government. It serves as a key tool for the VMC's ongoing systemic advocacy, ensuring that regional and diverse perspectives continue to inform key statewide strategies, policies and reforms.

Responsive advocacy through collaboration and partnerships: effecting change through relationships

Beyond formal submissions and reviews, the VMC actively supported communities through fast-moving events and emerging issues—offering policy guidance, practical advice and direct representation to government when it was most needed.

The VMC's responsive advocacy efforts focused on strengthening communities, improving services and promoting social cohesion.

This included:

- ▶ promoting accurate, culturally appropriate information during emergency events
- ▶ advocating for better access to government grants, services and resources in languages other than English
- ▶ participating in the roll-out of the Community Pharmacist Statewide Pilot, which aims to improve access to services women need
- ▶ contributing to consultations for VicHealth's Research Translation Centre, dedicated to anti-racism and health equality.

These efforts were supported through close collaboration with a range of partners at the state level, including:

- ▶ Department of Education
- ▶ Department of Families Fairness and Housing and Family Safety Victoria
- ▶ Department of Health

- ▶ Department of Jobs, Skills, Industry and Regions
- ▶ Department of Justice and Community Safety
- ▶ Department of Premier and Cabinet
- ▶ Victoria Police
- ▶ Victorian Collaborative Centre for Mental Health and Wellbeing

- ▶ Victorian Equal Opportunity and Human Rights Commission
- ▶ Victorian Public Sector Commission

The VMC also worked closely with partners at the federal level, including:

- ▶ Minister for Multicultural Affairs and Assistant Minister for Citizenship, Customs and Multicultural Affairs
- ▶ Special Envoy to Combat Islamophobia in Australia, Special Envoy to Combat Antisemitism in Australia, and Special Envoy for Social Cohesion

This cross-sector engagement ensured that advocacy remained agile, community-informed and solutions-oriented.

Participation on committees and taskforces: embedding community insight into government systems

The VMC maintained strategic engagement with government through participation in committees, taskforces and working groups across health, education, justice, family violence, youth justice and human rights. Examples included:

- ▶ Anti-Racism Taskforce, Department of Premier and Cabinet
- ▶ Best Start, Best Life Taskforce Advisory Group, Department of Education
- ▶ CALD Advisory Group, Victorian Electoral Commission

Through these forums, the VMC shared valuable community intelligence, provided culturally nuanced policy advice, and facilitated direct connections between government leaders and community representatives. These collaborations were pivotal in shaping inclusive, effective policies and services that authentically reflect Victoria's diverse population.

Regional Advisory Forum 2025

Community engagement

In 2024–25, the VMC deepened our direct engagement with multicultural communities and government—working collaboratively to respond to complex needs, promote inclusive policy and strengthen social cohesion. Through place-based engagement and cross-sector collaboration, the VMC empowered local voices, nurtured emerging leaders and promoted communities’ participation in decision-making processes.

Regional Advisory Councils: local voices, statewide influence

The VMC’s eight RACs, comprising over 210 members, continued to be a cornerstone of the VMC’s community engagement framework. RACs offer a platform for grassroots leaders to share local insights and advocate on issues affecting migrant and refugee communities across Victoria’s metropolitan, regional and rural areas.

Each RAC meeting—chaired by a VMC Commissioner—provided space for open dialogue on matters such as mental health, employment, racism, family violence and housing.

RAC highlights in 2024–25 included:

- ▶ Convening 24 formal meetings and targeted consultations.
- ▶ Identifying speakers and priority themes for the 2025 RAF, including sub-themes within the top priority areas and youth justice.

The VMC is deeply grateful to partner organisations that hosted RAC meetings in 2024–25, including AMES Australia (Noble Park and Multicultural Hub), Breakthrough Education, Cultura and City of Ballarat.

Peace Building through Contemplation, Compassion, and our Common Humanity Forum 2025

Multifaith Advisory Group: a collective voice for peace and inclusion

The MAG continued to serve as a vital platform for fostering dialogue between the Victorian Government and faith communities across the state. The MAG brings together faith leaders from across Victoria to provide advice on issues affecting their communities and to promote respectful interfaith collaboration.

In 2024–25, the MAG played a pivotal role in supporting social cohesion amid global tensions and local communities’ anxieties and concerns. The MAG deepened its role as an advisory body, offering strategic insights on issues affecting religious diversity, social cohesion and community harmony.

Comprising approximately 30 senior representatives from Victoria’s major faith traditions—including Christian, Muslim, Jewish, Sikh, Hindu, Buddhist and Baha’i communities—the MAG provided a space for spiritual leaders to share perspectives, elevate peace messaging and advocate for religious equity.

MAG highlights in 2024–25 included:

- ▶ Three formal meetings, including to provide input into the federal Department of Home Affairs’ whole-of-society Social Cohesion Engagement Framework.
- ▶ The Peace Building through Contemplation, Compassion, and our Common Humanity forum in April 2025.
- ▶ Input into the Victorian Multicultural Review led by George Lekakis AO.

The MAG’s leadership continues to be a source of strength and stability, particularly during times of community tensions and public uncertainty.

Promoting harmony with multifaith communities in challenging times: MAG’s Peace Building forum

In April 2025, the MAG, in collaboration with the Monash Centre for Consciousness and Contemplative Studies, the Australian Centre for Christianity and Culture, and Calm in the City, co-convened Peace Building through Contemplation, Compassion, and our Common Humanity at Queen’s Hall, Parliament of Victoria. This landmark forum brought together more than 100 community and faith leaders across Victoria to reflect deeply on the role of inner peace, mindfulness and shared human values in fostering social cohesion and community harmony.

The forum was opened by Her Excellency Professor the Honourable Margaret Gardner AC, Governor of Victoria, who underscored the importance of embracing diversity within the framework of a respectful and inclusive democracy. Iwan Walters, Parliamentary Secretary for Multicultural Affairs, reflected on how practices like contemplation help communities face challenges together.

Keynote presentations by Professor Craig Hassed, Sister Jayanti Kirpalani and Bishop Philip Huggins explored how contemplative practices such as meditation and reflection cultivate empathy, clarity and resilience—tools essential for navigating both personal and collective challenges. These reflections were supported by music, silence and dialogue, creating space for participants to set personal intentions toward peacebuilding in their own communities. MAG Chairperson and VMC Commissioner Vivienne Nguyen AM emphasised the forum as an expression of MAG’s core purpose: to model respectful, honest and constructive interfaith dialogue, while advising government and supporting the wellbeing of Victoria’s diverse faith communities.

Multicultural Youth Network: empowering young changemakers

The MYN continued to provide a vital platform to elevate the voices of young Victorians from diverse cultural and faith backgrounds throughout 2024–25. As a key advisory body to the VMC, the MYN provides insights on a range of youth-focused issues, ranging from education and mental health to inclusion, racism and employment equity.

Representing a cross-section of Victoria's multicultural youth, MYN members—aged between 16 and 25 years—met formally four times to shape conversations and actions that influence Victorian Government policy, amplifying youth perspectives to government departments and agencies.

MYN highlights in 2024–25 included:

- ▶ The preparation, moderation and delivery of a concurrent session on youth justice at VMC's RAF. In panel sessions and workshops, MYN members contributed their lived experiences and insights to discussions on early intervention, diversion and culturally safe justice responses. They also explored how mental health, identity and social connection can shape positive pathways away from the justice system.
- ▶ A young leaders and capacity-building workshop led by Dr Teresa De Fazio OAM brought together MYN members and diverse young leaders from other organisations, including the Centre for Multicultural Youth, Future Women and YMCA Youth Parliament. The workshop participants explored areas such as leadership, resilience and creative problem-solving in multicultural contexts and committed to applying their learnings in future MYN initiatives.

Peace Building through Contemplation, Compassion, and our Common Humanity Forum 2025

Partnerships and working together: strengthening partnerships for collaborative impact

In 2024–25, the VMC strengthened our impact through key partnerships with government agencies and community organisations, delivering targeted programs and fostering social cohesion across Victoria.

Notable collaborations included:

- ▶ Hosting an online forum in April 2025 with the Premier of Victoria, The Hon. Jacinta Allan MP, and Minister for Multicultural Affairs, Ingrid Stitt. The forum was attended by more 300 people and provided a valuable opportunity for participants to engage directly with government on issues such as bail reform, anti-vilification laws and the Victorian Multicultural Review.
- ▶ Partnering with DPC to deliver two Treaty Information sessions in Springvale and St Albans, each attended by around 50 participants.
- ▶ Collaborating with DPC Multicultural Affairs to engage international delegations from Myanmar and Japan, raising awareness of the VMC's pivotal role in supporting multiculturalism and strengthening social cohesion in Victoria.
- ▶ Collaborating with the Victorian Equal Opportunity and Human Rights Commission to present at VMC's eight RAC meetings on addressing workplace discrimination and combatting racism.
- ▶ Working with the Victorian Electoral Commission to raise awareness and provide information to communities about the local council election in October 2024.
- ▶ Supporting Tenants Victoria for their Multicultural Rental Rights Forum which promoted and provided information and resources to multicultural communities.
- ▶ Co-hosting the Connecting Entrepreneurial Women Business Leaders Forum with the Hellenic Australian Chamber of Commerce and Industry, Australian Asian Business Women's Association and National Council of Jewish Women Australia Victoria. This event recognised the role of diverse women in leadership and business, and the contribution of multicultural businesses to safeguarding community harmony and social cohesion.

- ▶ Engaging with the Centre for Multicultural Youth to empower multicultural youth, particularly new and emerging communities, and the issues that impact them.
- ▶ Partnering with AMES Australia and the Department of Jobs, Skills, Industry and Regions to deliver the Multicultural Learning Partnership, to improve engagement of multicultural learners in core skills training and strengthen their pathways to employment.

These above partnerships reflect the VMC's commitment to collaborative, community-driven approaches that amplify multicultural voices and create meaningful opportunities for social and economic inclusion across Victoria.

The VMC worked closely with different stakeholders as part of our community engagement, ongoing collaboration and advocacy efforts, including:

- ▶ the Ethnic Communities' Council of Victoria, through its networks of regional ethnic communities' councils and Multicultural Mental Health Network
- ▶ Monash Health as a member of its Regional Expert Advisory Group, Murdoch Children's Research Institute as a member of its GenV National Strategic Partnerships Advisory Committee, and Moonee Valley City Council as a member of its Multilingual reference group
- ▶ Scanlon Foundation Research Institute on matters of social cohesion
- ▶ by supporting multicultural communities in responding to the local impact of global events and conflicts, such as those in Gaza, Myanmar, Ukraine, Afghanistan, South Sudan, Iran, India and Pakistan.

VMC Commissioners also attended over 600 events organised by the community throughout the year. The VMC received positive feedback that Commissioners' attendance and support brings great significance to events and affirms the vital role the VMC plays in advancing equity, inclusion and culturally responsive approaches to community wellbeing. Commissioners' leadership continues to inspire confidence and direction across our multicultural networks.

Multicultural Youth Network members 2024–25

In October 2022, the VMC launched its Multicultural Youth Network (MYN), for the August 2022 to August 2024 term, at Parliament House in Victoria. This term was extended until October 2025.

A total of 20 young people, aged between 16 and 25 years old, were selected to represent each of the eight regions of Victoria:

- ▶ Barwon South West
- ▶ Gippsland
- ▶ Grampians
- ▶ Hume
